THE point most worthy of attention with re gard to the salt junk squeezing case, which now under the consideration of the Authorities, is the question whether the same thing lony, with respect to cargo of much more immediate importance to the foreign merchants than salt which is an article only of native almost hove to that is we could not should have taken bolder stope in order to levy a duty upon this article than they would be prepared to adopt with respect to were in all readiness to give her the Parachute other cargo. Salt is so thoroughly recognised throughout China as a taxed article-it being the subject of a government monopoly in every part of the Empire-that it is comparatively easy to persuade ignorant junkmen that they are called upon to pay a tax in Hongkong. Hence, it is quite in the order of things that might be expected, for these taxes to be first levied upon salt; but it is reasonable to believe that if, as there is now no doubt, this has been going on utterly unknown to the Authorities in Hongkong for the space of three years or more, other cargo of a far more paying description has been subjected to squeezes in a similar manner. Upon this point, however, we are not in possession of any information so definite as that which has come out in reference to the Salt after the usual caution had been given. From Tax Office, but we bear upon authority which there is reason to believe reliable, that | although the door was locked, a man could there are taxes levied in Hongkong upon easily enter, and in this way Leong Achan got in foreign merchandise. It will, of course, be much foreign merchandise. It will, of course, be in the conference of communication in the conference of communication and very difficult at the present time to discover when this was removed, the sperture had been whether this is really the case, as the breaking up of the salt office will have the effect room partitioned off from the other part of the of putting those concerned in the illegal levy of duties more carefully on their guard; and the 5th instant, he shad returned to bed about it is scarcely to be imagined that the Registrar-General's Office, or whatever other Department of the Government is charged in the body of the godown. About $ a.m. of the with discovering matters of this kind, will be able to find out what is going on, seeing that they failed to find out the existence of the salt taxing cetablishment, which has been going on for so long a period as above men-

This consideration is by no means comfort ing to those who are immediately interested in the commercial properity of this Colony, because, such a system of squeezing makes the trade of the place simply the sport of the Chinese officials and their employes. Chinamen are allowed to come to Hougkong and set up "Halls of Peace and Harmony, for the purpose of levying duties upon for reign goods for the benefit of the Mandarine. it is not very surprising that trade is found to be unsatisfactory, and that the markets are subjected to irregularities which the foreign merchant is unable to account for, and which militate in the most serious manner against his interests. It is, therefore, in the highest degree desirable that there should be the means in this Colony for ascertaining whether any more such taxing offices are in existence, but it is quite certain, unfortunately, that such means do not exist. There is no detective force, and the other sources of Chinese information are now proved to be utterly defective. It cannot, however, be supposed that the Authorities in this Colony are prepared to admit that they are unable to deal with this matter. If they have to make such an admission, they must at least show in a fifthy state. Fined $2. very distinctly that every effort has been made by them; and it unfortunately seems that it will be somewhat difficult for them to do so. scoing that they have ignored the repeated parque Isabelle Henriette, for an assualt. remonstrances made in regard to the defects MucDonald, who corroborated the deposition of in the Interpreting Departments and the complainant. The defendant stuted that he urgent want of a Detective Service, which thought that complainent had called him at Mr. Edmond Bestes, as judge of the Com- tion between the Emperor of Russia and fool, and when he asked him about this the bridgeshire district of bounty courts; has issued the Saltan, limiting their movel forces in could be made available to discover mutters many ited him by the breat, and then he had an order that all solicitors practising before the Black Sed signed at Paris on

The questions, therefore, involved in the case now under; consideration of the authorities, are of far more importance than the chandler's, shop in the Gentral Market, about Frankfort near Palnesville, Ohio! vernment, will not be renewed with jucreased vigour. The Chinese must by this time have fully discovered that they can levy these taxes with the smallest possible chance of discovery ; and if the principle enunciated by the Captain Superintendent of Police, that if the permits are really issued by the Mandaring the men found in Hongkong using them to levy taxes cannot be touched by the Law be adhored to the natives will further make the agreeable discovery that it does not matter whother they are found out or not. The result of making a matter of the kind a diplomatic question can be easily conceived, that is, i will end in the exponditure of a considerable amount of Her Majesty's foolscap, -st protered nihil. If the Colony of Hongkong cannot prevent the surreptitious lavy of taxes within its own borders, it may assuredly appeal in vain to the Canton Authorities. Their answer, if they give one at all, is plain. They will simply say that they ordered the men to levy the taxes on Chinese territory, and not in Hongkong, and there the matter will end, If it is really the fact that the Law will not under such circumstances meet the case, it will be absolutely necessary for the security of the trade of the Colony that, the matter should be at once taken up by the Legis-

For two days we were steamer's head on to the sea, the paddles moving just fast enough to give her stronge way, and even this was bardly enough, for we drog, to keep her head on. Altogether the passage to Yokohama was one of the most rying I have gone through. Just after leaving Yokobama the air pump unluckily broke down, being transferred to the New York. The damage, however, was fortunately repaired, and we have come along all right so far.

At a meeting of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Col. Fitz-S. Evans, Q.K.P., was called upon to explain his views regarding the fossil he claims to have discovered in the heart of a Colorado desert, which he did by admitting that his views were taken for a distance of some miles by the sid of an opera -grass. The Colonel's 'pleasant' little fiction has caused rather more inquiry than he antiopated, and he finds himself very much in the "fix" of a magician who has conjured up an awkward spirit that he cannot readily lay. If the ugly ghost will not "lie," we may at least hope its example city not be wholly lost up on Fitz-S .-News Letter.

As Attempt to Hun the Blockade. PARIS, Oct. 26. On Monday, the 17th, the Count de Flavigny, President of the International Society for the Relief of the Wounded, who had obtained an authorization from Count Bismarck to pass through the Prassian lines on his way to Strusburg with a sum of 100,000t, which had been collected in Paris for the relief of the sufferers by the late bombardment, set out in company, with Colonel Loyd Lindeay, who had just been to Paris, bringing with him from England half a million france for the relief of the French wounded. They left Paris together in a closed with wounded. At all events, it so happened diseases of life, such as COSTIVENESS, for manding those which had assured him a free is cleaned by passage having arrived. In consequence the Count had to retrace his steps while the British envoy continued his road. Balloons seem the only resource left to officials eager to depart, for exit by terrestrial mouns is impossible. All the ronds leading to the expital are jealously guarded by the Prassians, while detuchments of cavalry sweep the intervening space of country. Towards the close of last month an casay was made by two Englishmon, who had been detained in Paris by business, to leave by the road route. Hoping that some means for facilitating the departure of foreigners, would turn up, they waited for some time in illast lon. But about the 20th of September, finding that their

This time the French outposts arrested their ouward ruarch. They exhibited their pusses, and immediately were allowed to procoed again, Hitherto they had been within the French lines, in safety. Now that they were beyond them, and between the advanced posts of the combatants, their danger became considerable ; either side might have fired on them. Accordingly they put in practice the counsel they had received in Paris, drew out their bandkerchiefs, and never ceased to wave them as they walked along the broad road lined with trees and shrubs on either side leading towards Bezons, where they hoped to find a passage across the second bend of the Scine. So here they were-two peaceful Englishmen, one past the middle age, the other in the prime of life, dressed in unromentic civilian clothes and black buts, and one of them wearing spectacles, walking along a dismul country road, without a single being in sight, and liable at every step they took to be ceding one, until to-day it is acknowledged to fired upon by some sharpshooter or fraue-tireur be the posted behind hedge or free. And in fact they ifterwards learnt that on one side of this avenue which seemed to them endless, were French frames-tireurs; on the other, sharpshooters of and depurative known to medical science, and the Prussian army. The younger of the two Englishmen walked somewhat aboad of his companion; suddenly be turned back with a startling cry of " The Prussiant!" And there they were, or rather there was one of their sentrics: no had popped up from behind a buttress just in front of the strangers, as he approached the middle of the bridge. At once the wretched men bolted; a ball whizzed past them; but in a few minutes they were out of immediate danger.
